In the above course French may be substituted for Latin, by paying the extra charge for tuition in French. Other substitutions may be made with the consent of the Faculty. Weekly exercises in Reading and Composition will be required throughout the course. If any lady should desire it, she will be allowed to take the whole or any part of the Classical or Scientific course which she may choose. She will also be allowed to graduate and receive an appropriate Diploma in any department, the studies of which she shall have completed and passed in them a satisfactory examination. Those not wishing to graduate will be allowed to pursue any studies taught in the Institution, provided they have the requisite preparation for them, and enter the classes in which those branches are regularly taught.

East Tennessee Wesleyan University.

This Institution was first incorporated by the Legislature of the State of Tennessee, in the Winter of 1866-67, as the East Tennessee Wesleyan College. It commenced its first Collegiate year under the charter thus granted, on the 4th of September, 1867. At the next session of the Legislature its name and title were changed to East Tennessee Wesleyan University. It is invested by its charter with all the powers and privileges of a first-class University.

The University is pleasantly located in McMinn county, in the town of Athens, situated on the line of the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad, at a point half way between Knoxville and Chattanooga. It is therefore easily accessible from all parts of the State. For beauty of scenery and healthfulness of climate, Athens is justly celebrated, and in these particulars is not surpassed by any other town or city in the State.

It is fortunately situated in a very intelligent and moral community, where but few temptations to vice and dissipation can meet the student, compared with those always to be found in larger towns and cities. Besides this the habits of the citizens are such as to justify and encourage industry, simplicity of style and a rigid economy, so as to render the expense of living among them considerably less than at any other institution of a similar grade in the State.

Room accommodations are ample and sufficient for all purposes of collegiate and normal instruction. The main College Building is a substantial brick structure, 70x50 feet, three stories high, with large, well finished, and well furnished rooms for school, recitation, chapel, library and literary accommodations. The building is nearly new and in excellent condition. The smaller buildings are in good condition and ample in their accommodations. The grounds are extensive and very pleasantly located, and will soon be tastefully ornamented with beautiful shrubbery, shade trees and flowers.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Persons desiring admission must be able to present satisfactory evidence of good moral character. Where they have been members of other Colleges, a certificate of proper dismissal therefrom should be presented. Students may be admitted to advanced classes, if on examination they are found to possess the requisite qualifications.

GRADUATION.

When any student has completed either of the regular courses of study prescribed, and has passed in the same a satisfactory examination, he or she will be entitled to graduate and to receive a suitable Diploma, duly signed and bearing the seal of the University, on the pre-payment of the usual fee.

MERIT RECORD.

A daily record of merits in Scholarship and Deportment, also of demerits, is kept by each instructor, which, at the close of each term, is publicly read and placed upon a permanent record. This will show the average and relative standing of each student in each study and mark his character for good or bad behavior.

TERMS AND EXPENSES.

The Collegiate Year is divided into two terms or sessions of twenty weeks each.

EXPENSES.

Tuition in the Classical Collegiate Department, per term,	$23 00

Instruction in Music, $20 00 per term; Use of Piano, $1 00 per month.

The above charges are payable always in advance. Board in private families, including room, fuel, lights, and washing, can be obtained at $3 00 per week. Rooms may be procured in which students, if they prefer it, can board themselves at a cost varying from $1 00 to $1 50 per week. For instruction in French, German, Hebrew, Civil Engineering or Commercial Science, there will be an extra charge of $7 50 per term, or $4 00 per half term.

HEBREW AND THEOLOGY.

Provisions are made for giving instruction in Hebrew, Theology, and Homilistics, to such as desire it.

LIBRARY.

The Library numbers already over one thousand volumes; accessions of valuable books, both for reading and reference, will be constantly made, either by purchase or donation. To these the students have access weekly, in accordance with the rules and regulations adopted by the Trustees.

PHILOSOPHICAL AND CHEMICAL APPARATUS.

It is expected that soon a Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus will be procured, sufficient to illustrate by experiments the branches of study which come under those departments.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Two Literary Societies for the gentlemen, the Athenean and the Philomathean, and one for the ladies, the Adelphian, also, a Theological Society, have been formed, and are in successful operation. These meet regularly for mutual improvement in debate, declamation, criticism and composition. The Theological Society has already a good library of over 300 volumes.

PRIZES.

Prizes and medals are frequently offered by benevolent individuals for excellence in the various departments of study, and in general deportment. This feature meets with approval and encouragement both from the Trustees and Faculty.

CALENDAR.

The Collegiate Year consists of two terms of twenty weeks each.

The first term (of the next year) commences the First Thursday in September, 1870, and closes Wednesday, January 18th, 1871.

The second term commences January 26, and closes Wednesday, June 14th, 1871.

The summer vacation will continue eleven weeks. The winter vacation, between the terms, one week.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

The Trustees are prepared to open a Normal School for the special education and training of Teachers, to which persons possessing the requisite moral and literary qualifications and complying with the prescribed conditions, will be admitted, without regard to race, color, or previous condition. This will be separate and distinct from the departments now in operation. Students, however, in the other departments will be admitted if they desire it, on the same conditions as persons not connected with the University. Convenient rooms will be furnished for the use of this Department, until a suitable building for the purpose shall be erected and completed. Instructors will be provided as their services may be needed, who will devote their whole time and attention to the Normal Students.

Before entering the Normal School each person must give satisfactory evidence of good moral character, and of having made suitable proficiency in Reading, Orthography and Penmanship; also in the elementary principles of Arithmetic, English Grammar and Geography; and also of possessing a fair capacity both for teaching and governing.

The year will be divided into two terms of ten weeks each. The first term will commence on the 2nd Thursday in October; and the second term on the 1st Thursday in January.

Full Tuition, $20 00 per term; incidentals, $3 00. There will be an abatement in tuition of $15 00 per term to any student who will sign a written pledge or guarantee to take the full Normal course of instruction, and to teach for two consecutive years, after graduation from the Normal School, in the Free Schools of the State of Tennessee; in which case tuition will be only $5 00, and incidentals $3 00 per term.

The Course of Study will be :—

FIRST YEAR.

First Term.

Language Culture.

Arithmetic.

Review of the Whole Course.

The design of the course will be to impart a thorough knowledge of the elementary principles of each branch taught in the free schools of the State, and the best method of teaching them. Lectures will be given in connection with teaching, and opportunities for practical teaching given to the students.

This Course of Instruction will be subject to such changes as by experience may be found necessary or desirable.
